PROJECT: Mount Pavilia
LOCATION: Sai Kung, Hong Kong

The brief was that the design for this 170sqm (1,829sqf) apartment should be contemporary, elegant and light as well as reflecting the complex's green surroundings to give a sense of place. The clients wished to replicate the experience of being in a five-star boutique hotel. The original four-bedroom, three-bathroom layout was redesigned to improve spatial and aesthetic flow. A timeless white/grey palette and materials such as high-quality marble, glass and stainless steel throughout the flat give a cohesive flow. False ceilings with light troughs lend an extra dimension to every room and subtly patterned wallpaper on feature walls and headboards in the bedrooms offer variations on a theme. An internal courtyard with a tree becomes a focal point of the open-planned living/dining room and provides light for the windowless second bedroom.
